Designer In Residence

The Dutch Design Month plans to invite international designers to Rotterdam from 1 till 24 december as parts of its Designer in Residence programme.

Programme

The Designers in Residence programme is a core part of the Dutch Design Month's activity, and exists to provide established designers, across any discipline, with time and space away from their regular environment to reflect, research and consider new ways of developing their practice.

Conditions ,

The programme is directed towards international designers of at least 50 years with proven track record in one of the four themes of the Dutch Design Month:

- Object and Industrial
- Media, Graphic and Interactive
- Architecture, Interior and Urban
- Human, Fashion and Food

Language skills in Dutch, Italian, German or English are required.

Designer in Residence benefits ,

This year, a residence is made available for each area and designers will be able to use a dedicated studio to create their works. Visitors will be able to see the designers during the week twice a day at work and interact with them during those allocated times slots. Once each designer has completed their residency of 24 days, they will collectively form a showcase of their work in House Of Crazyness!

This opportunity will provide designers the time and space to focus and develop a project independently, with the help of the Dutch Design Month and its network of established practitioners. Moreover the Dutch Design Month aims to empower the selected designers, creating an infrastructure that balances support with self-sufficiency, enabling them to thrive in their own creative practices. Support within design, could be structural, spatial or social, from co-design, to service design, support is about a thorough understanding of the audience or user. The multi-disciplinary platform will unite designers by exploring topics of shared interest that relate to the theme.

In addition, each residence holder will receive 250 euro's to cover the travel costs. A special allowance can be made available for material costs. The results of the residence will be presented at a group showcase at the final weekend of Dutch Design Month on 22, 23 and 24 december.
